MANAGER COMMENT

Despite increased restrictions worldwide caused by the Omicron variant and ongoing inflation concerns, most major global indices ended the month higher, including South Africa. Early data suggests the Omicron variant is not as harmful as expected, with data indicating a lower risk of severe disease compared to previous variants. Economic data has also begun to show a slight return to normality. Both were enough to see a reversal from losses recorded in November.

Global equity markets managed to finish the year strongly, bouncing back for a weak November as it became apparent the latest COVID-19 variant (Omicron) was significantly less deadly than previous strains. Developed equity markets finished the month in positive territory as the MSCI World Index closed 4.19% month-on-month (m/m) in USD and 3.77% in ZAR. US stocks proved resilient as the S&P 500 (US$) closed the month 4.47% up, its best December in over 10 years. The US 10-year government bonds closed marginally higher in December, following the Fed's announcement to accelerate the pace of quantitative easing. Furthermore, European equities also got back to winning ways, with the Euro Stoxx 50 (€) up 5.81% m/m.

Emerging market equities lagged developed market peers but did finish the month with slight gains. The MSCI Emerging Market Index returned 1.62% m/m in USD and 1.21% in ZAR. China and Russia once again contributed significantly to the latest drag on performance, the former negatively affected by US-listed Chinese stocks performance and the latter still caught up in geopolitical tensions related to the build-up of troops on its border with Ukraine.

The South African equity market produced another month in the "green", as the FTSE/JSE All Share index closed the month at 4.80% and 29.23% for the year, resulting in the strongest year for the local bourse since 2012. Gains occurred across the board in December, and gold miners (the star performers of November) were really the only drag on performance.

All major sectors were in positive territory for December. Resources led the pack at 5.53% m/m, Financials closed at 4.42% m/m higher and industrials lagged slightly at a 2.76% m/m return. Bonds recorded another positive return, as the All Bond Index (ALBI) closed 2.69% higher m/m. SA listed property delivered a strong return as it closed 7.88% higher m/m in its second consecutive month up. Cash (STeFI) delivered a moderate return of 0.34% m/m. South African value managers (6.48% m/m) outperformed growth managers (4.12% m/m) while globally the opposite occurred.

The ZAR experienced mixed results against most major currencies, due to the uncertainty around the Omicron variant. The ZAR was up 1.42% and 0.40% against the Japanese yen and USD, but lost ground against the sterling and euro, which finished the month 1.93% and 0.62% stronger against the ZAR respectively.
