MANAGER COMMENT

With a falling inflation rate, the US seems close to achieving its 2% inflation target. Although consumer prices increased slightly in September compared with August, the figure isn't far from the target. The UK economy is still showing resilience through its economic expansion despite remaining static during June and July. China and the eurozone economy are both growing despite not expanding to the desired figure. The rate cutting cycle continues in the eurozone as interest rates were cut for the third time by the European Central Bank (ECB) at its October meeting. Locally, inflation dipped to below the midpoint of the South African Reserve Bank's inflation target, encouraging the bank to cut rates after a US rate cut.

Developed market equities experienced their second negative month of the year with the MSCI World Index ending the month at -1.98% in dollars, largely attributed to weakness across most regions and sectors. US corporates started reporting third quarter earnings, with about half of S&P 500 companies reporting earnings during October. Emerging market equities also struggled and ended negatively with the MSCI EM Index at -4.32% m/m in dollars. Global bonds and global property also finished in negative territory at -3.35% m/m and -5.02% m/m respectively in dollars. The FTSE Index was negative at -1.64% m/m in pounds, along with the S&P 500 which ended negatively at -0.92% m/m in dollars. The Dow Jones Index also ended negatively at -1.26% m/m in dollars and the Euro Stoxx 50 ended negative at -3.32% m/m in euros. However, the Nikkei was in positive territory at 3.06% in yen terms.

After seven consecutive positive months, South African equities retracted in October with the FTSE/JSE Capped All Share Index ending the month negatively at -0.92%, tracking global markets lower. Even the rand-hedge component of the SA bourse (companies with predominantly foreign earnings) could not take advantage of the tailwind a weak local currency provided to deliver decent rand share price performance in October. Resources and Cash were both in positive territory for the month, ending at 2.98% and 0.68% respectively. However, Industrials was negative for the month at -5.90%, along with Property and Financials both ending the month negatively at -2.84% and -0.38% respectively. The bond market was negative for the month, as the FTSE/JSE All Bond Index ended at -2.20% m/m. Bonds of 1-3 years were also in negative territory at -0.06% m/m, along with bonds of 3-7 years at -1.21% m/m, bonds of 7-12 years at -2.13% m/m, and bonds of 12 years and above at -3.42% m/m. The rand weakened against the US dollar by -2.53% m/m, but strengthened against the euro by 0.20% m/m. The rand also strengthened against the pound by 1.69% m/m.
