MANAGER COMMENT

President Joe Biden highlighted the possibility of an upcoming US government default. This dominated financial news in May and political parties were finding it difficult to reach a compromise on raising the US borrowing limit during the month of May. Leading up to the agreement, US government bond investors drove US 10-year government bond yields higher, to above 3.8%. The US dollar ended May stronger against most currencies, and higher yields made the currency more attractive.

Emerging markets did not perform well with the MSCI EM Index closing at -1.65% month-on-month (m/m). The MSCI World Index ended -1.00% m/m and global bonds at -1.95%. Global Property ended at -4.42% m/m in dollar terms, the FTSE 100 Index at -4.63% m/m and the S&P 500 ended 0.43% m/m in dollar terms.

South Africa's FTSE/JSE All Share Index recorded a decline of -3.92% m/m in May. Financials were hardest hit at -7.92% m/m and Property ended at -5.32% m/m. Resources also retreated and were down -2.16% m/m, even though gold counters shone as the rand gold price soared on the back of a falling rand. Industrials declined by 3.06% m/m. Cash ended the month at 0.65%. The rand weakened by 7.73% m/m against the US dollar. It further declined by 4.45% against the euro, 6.43% against the pound, 0.44% against the yen and 0.005% against the Australian dollar. This is in relation to the rand crash caused by accusations of supplying arms to Russia. In May, the rand breached the R19.90/US$1 level and got close to the psychological R20/US$1 mark.
